Publicis Groupe [Euronext Paris: FR0000130577, CAC40] is back with the latest season of its annual wishes featuring Maurice Lévy. A tradition that began as a simple recorded message from Mr. Lévy to the Groupe, has since 2008 become a much-anticipated yearly rendez-vous, rooted in creativity, innovation and technology.

Like your favorite series, the character remains the same season after season- Maurice Lévy in his office with his wishes for the New Year. Publicis Groupe brings you “The Very Good Wishes” for 2015- spreading joy this season by making a donation to the children served by Make-A-Wish®, an organization that grants the wishes of children with life-threatening medical conditions in nearly 50 countries around the world.

“The Very Good Wishes” allows you for the first time to control a YouTube video on your desktop with your smartphone/tablet as the joystick. By syncing your device to “The Very Good Wishes”, you gain control of a carnival claw swinging around Mr. Lévy's office as he gives his speech. The aim of the game is simple – agilely trap the stuffed animals around his office, helping Mr. Lévy wrap them up. With each catch, you’ll see the item slide seamlessly from the desktop to your mobile, wrapped up and ready to be shared on social media. After all, the more we work together, the better we do.

Aim well, and you might accidentally catch Mr. Lévy's personal belongings and other hidden items around his office – his beloved candy jar, lamp, phone, Cannes Lion or other items – unlocking extra surprises in the video. Move the claw too much or too far, or even catch the Maurice Lévy himself...and you will see what happens!
Enjoy “The Very Good Wishes” and subscribe to the Publicis Groupe YouTube channel here: http://www.publicisgroupe.com/wishes2015/ and check out what others have caught by joining the conversation on Twitter & Facebook: #TheVeryGoodWishes.

We’d like to extend a special thank you for the ongoing support of our digital partners at Google and YouTube on this project year after year.

TECH FACTS:
- This is the first YouTube video game controlled by a mobile/tablet device, another original technology developed by DigitasLBi France.
- The joystick functionality controlling the video uses the accelerometer feature on your smartphone.
- This experience is made up with 290 sub videos, creating the interactivity of the experience.
- A month of tests and engineering was necessary for the development and creation of the carnival claw.
- Mr. Lévy’s office was recreated in 3D to test the behavior of the clamp before the shooting.

KEY FACTS:
- More than 1,000 stuffed animals were present during the shooting (none of them were harmed).
- The storm scene finally succeeded at messing up M. Lévy’s hair.
- The Cannes Lion present in the video is the real one awarded in 2013 for “The Human YouTube Player.”
- The musical signature of the wishes is the same used in “The More The Merrier,” re-orchestrated in a fun-fair style.
- This is the first ever Publicis Groupe wishes that is both an interactive video game and a charitable experience.
- There are a total of 30 items to catch in Mr. Lévy’s office, and 9 hidden catches (you’ll see when you get one!)

HOW IT WORKS:
Synchronize your smartphone with your desktop (or the other way round) by entering the URL in your smartphone/tablet (Android and iOS compatible) or flashing the QR code. Then, you take control of the claw and start the game using your smartphone as a game joystick: lean it right, left or up and down to go forward and backward. Push the central button to activate the claw and catch objects. Test your chances by re-playing as many times as you wish in order to catch all the items in Mr. Lévy’s office. Share your catches on Twitter and Facebook, inviting others to try their chances.
